1. O why, my God, have you de-sert-ed me?
My groan-ing how far from a guar-an-tee!
All day and night I get from prayer and plea no in-ter-mis-sion!
Yet, Ho-ly One, you're fond of re-pe-ti-tion heard in the glo-rious prais-es of tra-di-tion.
Our fath-ers put their trust in your vo-li-tion and not in vain.

3. Sur-round-ing an-i-mals of pack or pride, their ro ar-ing or growl that I can't a-bide, jaws so a-gape, where fears of death re-side leave me a-ly-ing.
Melt would my heart, my pal-ate quick-ly dry-ing, bones out of joint, while ev-ery-one is eye-ing, that gang of vil-lains clos-ing in, be-ty-ing my hands and feet.

4. My bones so nu-mer-ous, my case com-plete, while sol-diers cast lots for my cloth-ing neat, none to ne-go-ti-ate, must I re-peat,
give me as-sis-tance,
safe from the name-less threats to my ex-ist-ence, dog and the li-on paw-ing with per-sist-ence, the wi-ld bulls of Ba-shan in the dis-tance, from sword, my soul.
