1. Lord, I love you, the horn of my sal-va-tion,

(source of de-liv-erance, source of lib-er-a-tion).

You are my God, my for-tress and my rock, if I'm with-out, you o-pen when I knock.

You are my re-fuge, hab-i-tat and shel-ter, shield of de-fense, its bear-er and its smel-ter.

You are u-nique, your qual-i-ties are praised, those who lam-poon your name would be a-mazed.

3. Not one goat was re-fused when they as-sem-bled, then came the noise as ev-ery moun-tain trem-bled, heat from your nos-trils, what a lot of smoke, clouds in the dark sur-round-ing like a cloak, hot your e-mo-tions, ag-gra-va-tion fum-ing, out of your mouth a fi-re all-con-sum-ing, wings of the wind to see you safe-ly through,
bound to a nim-ble cher-ub, on you flew.

5. Arch-ing up, o-ver life and its dis-tress-es, high o-ver wa-ters deep in their re-cess-es, reached down your hand, my heav-en-ly sup-port, when they as-sailed me, foes of ev-ery sort, set me at large in broad, ex-pan-sive plac-es once you re-deemed me, one your love em-brac-es, days of dis-as-ter turned up-on their head when you ar-rived with vic-to-ry in-stead.

8. Rock that saves us from for-eign sub-ju-ga-tion, who else but God, my place of el-e-va-tion?
Feet like the hinds' I'm cling-ing to the height, hands in your hand, that one up-on the right.
Hold me with care, it's me that you are train-ing, room for my steps, my stead-i-ness main-tain-ing, arms, with your strength, to bend the bow of bronze, legs set to run a doz-en mar-a-thons.

9. In-stant bursts of your speed would be sur-pris-ing, struck un-der-foot, those foes that won't be ris-ing.

Let go your hail-stones, thun-der out your bolt, save me from quar-relling peo-ples in re-volt!

Folk in-cog-ni-to come to woo my fa-vor, hearts that would not hang back nor ev-en wav-er.

Out of their holds they rush to get a-way, quick to im-press and des-tined to o-bey.

10. Bless-ings flow through your ci-ty like a riv-er, life to the Lord, your peo-ple to de-liv-er!
Lift me a-bove those bat-tles of the earth, give me a val-ue grant-ed from your worth.
So would I praise your name a-mong the na-tions, sing to your king my grate-ful cel-e-bra-tions.
time af-ter time, with love do you re-store heirs to be born of Da-vid ev-er-more.
