1. My lit-tle child-ren, as I said,

I'm leav-ing soon to forge a-head, as proph-e-cy was show-ing, my new com-mand-ment, you should love each oth-er with a mea-sure of my love; my es-sence know-ing.

Your hearts, un-trou-bled, un-a-fraid, you'll trust me, as my Father's made a place of broad ex-pans-es.

4. And when I nudged you from their state, the world be-gan to fear and hate the serv-ant like the Mas-ter.
But since I'd spok-en when I came they've no ex-cuse for sin, to blame my works for their dis-as-ter.
The hour has come when ways of war will seem to be a ho-ly chore, a no-tion that's mis-tak-en.
