

1. The Way was clear for everyone to hear news that was good, the Holy Spirit near, aiming the Word of God that all were needing on Jesus Christ whose glory would appear, curing the sick and devilment impeding.
2. For strategy, Jerusalem would be where they would hang our Lord upon a tree, so to become the source of resurrection, raised up by God for everyone to see eating and drinking, all for our inspection.
3. The Father'd please to give us guarantees, stones of a house and keeper of the keys, kindred of prophets, witnessing, declaring,
of those alive or dead, on bended knees,
Christ will be judge of all that we are sharing.

1. The Church remained in prayer to God while Peter was roughed by the squad.
Royal plans were to watch and wait with soldiers assigned at the gate.
2. An angel of the Lord, at night, the prison exposed to its light, eased the chains so the man was free.
"Your eyes am I come here to be!"
3. Awake, the prisoner tried to feel this vision of sight was for real.
Seven steps going down took breath . . .
'my rescue from clear, certain death.'
4. Then, on to Mary's, undelayed, whose house was intact as they prayed . . .
indistinct to the ones inside,
so Rhoda drew near, open-eyed.
5. She recognized the gospel voice, could only be glad and rejoice, going back with the door still locked, distracted that somebody knocked.
6. She brought the most surprising news, insisted til none could refuse naming Peter the refugee who fit the account to a T!

1. The visions, once more, in the night:
 one Macedonian appearing,
 to move the right way pioneering, to come across and help them, quite.
Once Paul had comprehended, we lost not a minute in transition, sure that the Lord desired a mission to magnify the Majesty.

1. Athens! Observe how keenly I applaud orphans who've overlooked the present order.
I noticed as I strolled around the border one sacred place where worshippers could laud goddess or god.
17:30
2. This is a name you'd wish to call divine,
'Lord God Almighty', noted appellation, the author of the old and new creation, now in our hearts and not in any shrine men could design.
Ps. 91:1-2
II Co. 5:17
3. Life to be lived is offered everyone, light to the human race for education, with limits on the boundaries of a nation, lest you renounce those deeds that you've begun under the sun.
Qo. 1:14
4. Down through the years, you'll struggle and succeed.
Yet, God is close to any clearly seeing that source of all the yearning for a Being.
Yes, we are chosen children, guaranteed faith with our deed.
Jm. 2:18

Genevan 14 10 11 11 10 4 Serial (only)

1. En route to bring back those who knew this Way, a light above which threw me off my feet, a view preventing, shone in the manner of addressing,
 "Saul, Saul, O why are you oppressing your Jesus, the one you're tormenting."
2. They saw the bright light, didn't hear the voice that I could feel so near:
 "Get to the city where you're going, in to Damascus, there reminded what you're appointed for, though blinded, the moves to make, you helpers showing."
3. A Christian made sense of the plight, 9:10 said, 'Brother Saul, receive your sight.
 God of our fathers is revealing ways to pursue the One you're seeking, Is. 51:1 ways to believe a mode of speaking, the Spirit that pledge fully sealing.' Ep. 1:13-14
4. From darkness to light, that they rise, I send you out to bless their eyes, mouth for the word to every nation, Jr. 1:9 guard of your present apparitions, heard by their faith and through your missions

 Genevan 83 88.9999 In B & M

1. A son of God can feel the Spirit moving, not in your slavery, acting out of fear, whom you received, your Advocate in proving God is our Father coming very near, who's hearing little children crying "Abba!", heirs with the Seer whose glory will appear.
2. I'm thinking that the suffering we're enduring can't be compared with glories that proceed, blessed, as creation waits for our maturing, with an intense reflection of its need,
when all will be acceptable as infants, glad that we're freed completely and indeed.
3. Roused inwardly, we hear the whole creation groan for release, from here to where it's bound.
We who have known the Spirit's cultivation wait for the precious fruiting of the ground, and hope to see a real revelation teach and expound, while canticles resound.
4. Most tenderly the Spirit bears our weakness when our component words are uncombined.
God who has made us products of uniqueness, knows of the mode to which we're all inclined,
and listens to the Spirit offer meaning, so what's assigned will stimulate the mind.
5. Awareness that the Lord will be installing rooms for our good, will lead us there to dwell.
Yes, we are those on whom the choice is falling, long, long ago on them in Israel.
The Spirit with the water is the artist, we the pastel for living aquarelle.
6. Since God is on our side by thus instilling love for the world to ransom every child, how could this God deny us what's fulfilling, one with the Christ, our spokesman undefiled, who died for us, is risen and is standing, who reconciled the flock, as we are styled?
7. So nothing comes between us when we're baited, Romans 8 neither attack nor absence of reward. Genevan 37 This from the Scriptures: Nothing that's created from God's design in Jesus Christ our Lord, no height nor any depth, can make us separate, foes that ignored our slaughter by the sword.

1. The language of the cross may greatly worry those who for 'all these things' are in a hurry, but for the poor en route to their salvation quote I a line that furthers consolation: God who is good destroys pride and its clever ploys that make opinions perish
 "when I have overturned what everyone has learned and academics cherish."

Mt. 6:33

Mt. 5:3

Is. 29:14

2. Philosophers, your thinkers and your sages, where are they now though honored through the ages?
 See how a God omniscient has been chiding those overdoing logic they're providing.
 On those who think they know God will indeed bestow
 a lack in comprehension, but to the humble give the faith that they will live by folly's intervention.

3. While Jews some wondrous order are demanding, Greeks look for wisdom, deal in understanding,
 we point to Christ who died by crucifixion, preaching without your philosophic diction.
 Jews see the stumbling-blocks,
 Greeks get offensive shocks,
 but God will be our power.
 Laughs from the Lord are wise, whose weakness is a prize,
 a fortress and a tower!

1:17

Ps. 2:4

Ps. 61:3

1. As heaven is unique, God's eloquence will seek a glory of its own.
 While sun is very bright,
 our moon can still delight and stars emit some tone.
 Though grain appears to die,
 the ears are piled high,
 picked in a close election.
 The seed is like a soul
 that's self-contained and whole.
 Such is the resurrection.

Ps. 19:1

15:37

Mt. 13:30

2. When life was unrehearsed, our Adam was the first
 that living soul to tend.
 The second Son of Man comes after with the plan that brings us to the end.
 The promise was fulfilled in children that were willed, born into animation.
 As Christ became the Way,
 we formed upon that day parts of the new creation.

Ep. 1:9-10

3. The ebb of flesh and blood, the rising of the flood, Mt. 13:47 are evermore estranged.
 A riddle solved have I:
 our essence will not die,
 for we shall all be changed,
 the twinkling of an eye,
 a trumpet in the sky,
 raised when the Lord's recasting humanity that must be willing to entrust
 Now to the Everlasting.

4. When swallowed up is strife and nature puts on life,
 the sting of death will wane.
 Our failings get their awe
 and power from the Law, but grace is here to reign. Rm. 5:21 And God who never owes us thanks, who ever grows Mt. 15:13 plants that we're charged with naming, will honor Jesus Christ
 whose nourishment sufficed, seeds of the spirit claiming!

1. It's God who's truly in control.
When we were once dead in our role Christ stepped up to be raised for all and cancel the curse of the Fall so those with faith would live no longer for self but for the one who's stronger.
2. From here on out, we don't assume our future is locked in a tomb.
Christ we knew as an earth-bound man is now in our hearts with a plan:
The old is gone, a new creation is here to work our transformation.
3. It's God in whom I'm reconciled, no longer estranged or defiled.
God in Christ has redeemed the world, whose banner of love is unfurled, restoring nature and sustaining a holy people, ever reigning.
4. So Christ is calling us to be ambassadors striving to see how God works in the Servant's name, in us with the Word to proclaim, accepting gladly our appearance, entrusting us to be adherents.
5. Do not stop working to complain, do not promote goodness in vain.
"All the while I am here to heed your prayer for support that you need.
Perceive the day of your salvation,
a favored time of preparation!
